Introducing the debut artist album from Austin DJ/producer Missy LeKtro of Kardiac Records. Specializing in electronic and indie music, Kardiac and its founders are new to their role as artistic developers within Austin's musical circuit. But their relentless desire to have their music heard and to help others find their own creative spark will make them a positive force within Austin's music scene. Notable song credits include Missy LeKtro's first digital single, The Funk, which received modest but global acclaim, as well as her bootleg mash-up mix of Williams' Illegal Ninja Moves with the Dead Prez' hip-hop classic, Hell Yeah.

Kardiac Records' brand new 2009 Summer Sampler consists of eight electronic tracks produced by Missy LeKtro herself and ranging from dark electro-breaks, to tech-house beats with driving electro bass lines. In addition, the KR crew has collaborated with different types of artists and musicians, including local talent like hip-hop style vocalist MC Flint, whose lyrics and voice-work get a special re-edit in the track "Bassline Hit."

Music aficionados of all types will appreciate the honesty and sincerity that this music has to offer. The Kardiac Records 2009 Summer Sampler signifies the beginning of something new and exciting within Austin's local music scene: home-grown dance music produced without the use of any pre-existing drum loops or tired, worn-out samples, but instead with creativity, soul, and a fresh perspective.
